CALL FOR PAPERS FOR AND INVITATION TO 2022 WORKSHOP

The ANZSIL International Economic Law Interest Group (IELIG) was established in 2011 to provide a forum for those interested in international economic law, especially international regulation of trade, investment, intellectual property, and monetary law. The work of the Interest Group covers all areas of international economic law and its implementation in domestic law, embracing both theoretical and practical aspects. The IELIG aims to maintain relevance for government, practitioners and academics alike and encourages discussion and exchange of ideas among all those involved in this field.

2022 Workshop

The 2022 IELIG Workshop will be held via Zoom on Friday 18 November 2022, starting at 9am (AEST)/11am (NZ time). Its aim is to provide an informal setting for discussion of topical issues and works in progress. The programme will include a dedicated session for the presentation of current PhD research.

We are honoured to have Simon Lester as this year's keynote speaker. Simon will speak on 'The US Challenge to China's Role in the World Trading System'.

We invite paper proposals from ANZSIL members, practitioners in the field as well as staff from MFAT, DFAT, and the Attorney-General's Department. We encourage PhD students and early career practitioners and academics to submit a proposal. Paper proposals may be on any topic within the work of the IELIG. All speakers are invited to submit their paper following the workshop to the Australian Year Book of International Law or the New Zealand Yearbook of International Law for possible publication. We also invite ANZSIL members and MFAT/DFAT/AGD staff to attend the workshop even if not presenting a paper.

Submission of proposals

If you wish to submit a paper proposal, please submit an abstract of 300 words by email to christian.riffel@canterbury.ac.nz and esme.shirlow@anu.edu.au by 31 October 2022. Please include the heading on your email message 'ANZSIL Conference IELIG Workshop Proposal: [Your Name]'.

Best wishes,

Assoc Prof Esmé Shirlow (Australian National University) and Assoc Prof Chris Riffel
(University of Canterbury)
